

Parkinson Alberta Board of Directors Biography

Paul Moore, Calgary

Paul is a business executive who has had a varied career in different industries, most recently as an owner and director of Aeroguard Group, a company providing passenger and baggage screening services for the federal government at Canadian airports. He also served as Executive Vice President and Chief Business Officer. In an earlier life, he had a wide ranging career in broadcasting and new media. He was an Executive Producer of online divisions for a couple of national media networks and for many years was a television producer and journalist with CBC Television. He is a graduate of Carleton University (Journalism) and Osgoode Hall Law School. He is currently Vice Chair of Social Venture Partners, a non-profit group of engaged philanthropists that provides funding and operational expertise to emerging non-profit groups in Calgary. Paul was drawn to Parkinson Alberta after witnessing the effects of Parkinson disease with his father, who suffered PD for many years.
